Elderly Victim Robbed In Eastvale

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale - On August 7, two suspects distracted an elderly victim and robbed him at a business in The Station.

The two suspects "lured an elderly victim toward them to have a conversation," according to a Riverside County Sheriff's Department news release. "During the interaction, the suspects distracted the victim and robbed him of jewelry he was wearing. The suspects fled the scene in a vehicle" and were later identified as Petre Alexandru, 27, and Gratiela Stoian, 22, both residents of Romania.

Deputies assigned to the city of Eastvale Special Enforcement Team (SET) responded to the scene and met the victim in a parking lot of a business located in the 5000 block of Hamner Avenue, in Eastvale.

"Through several investigative means, SET deputies learned the couple was responsible for a similar incident in Vancouver, Canada," stated the news release. "Deputies identified both suspects and the vehicle used in the crime. Deputies coordinated an apprehension of the suspects with the Palm Springs Police Department." Both suspects were arrested in Palm Springs and deputies found other jewelry in their vehicle, including multiple necklaces, rings, watches and bracelets that possibly belonged to other unidentified victims.

Both suspects were subsequently transported and booked at the Robert Presley Detention Center for robbery, elder abuse, and conspiracy to commit a crime. "Alexandru and Stoian are currently pending a $500,000.00 bail," according to the new release.

The Power Of A Child

MICHAEL ARMIJO

We go through life and we grow, we build, we conquer, we reach our successful arenas; our niche in life. We overcome things we never dreamt we could possibly overcome. We accomplish the impossible. Then we reflect and feel this power about ourselves, the power of controlling our lives and accomplishing what we need to. We feel strong and purposeful; in control of our own destiny.

And then one day, by an act from God, a 60 pound, 4 foot 1 inch person rips away every sense of power that we've worked all our lives to obtain.

I've felt helpless at times in my life, but have always felt that I could overcome anything life gives me. But strength, intelligence, and endurance cannot compete with certain elements that come into our lives, seemingly as an act of God. Only God could show us how love can make us feel powerful...or powerless.

When her tiny voice cried out I could hear the weakness in the tone. She looked frail, lethargic, and felt much warmer than she should have. I could sense the virus creeping into her weak little body; she lay exhausted and motionless as her fever climbed to 102 degrees. My child was sick.

Motivated by strength I rise to the occasion and I'm determined to stay by her side and make her well – for as long as it takes (but deep inside I feel afraid and helpless). Intelligence kicks in and I start the bath water running and carry her to the cool water.

Feeling even more helpless as her fever hits 104 AFTER the bath, I call for help. The fear escalates as the paramedics take my child away and I follow them to the hospital. As doctors and nurses attend to her my eyes fill with tears. I spend a sleepless night at her bedside.

I sit slumped over in a chair next to her bed, head in hands, exhausted. My mind starts wandering, and I begin to wonder, is it worth it? Is the responsibility of this little person too much? Does the giving, sharing and loving balance out with the worry and fear?

And then, I feel this soft little touch on my hand as tiny fingers try to interlace with my own. I hear this little voice whisper, "I love you, Daddy." I feel the tears run down my cheeks and I'm overwhelmed with relief. I look up at my girl and see a hint of a smile, reassuring me that she is better. That little ray of sunshine feeds my soul, and I'm feeling better, too

As she feels stronger, I feel stronger. I embrace my child and feel some of my power being restored and I begin to understand. The moment she was born I relinquished all of my power to her. She is the source that can bring me to the highest of highs, and the lowest of lows.

And so it is with children. They motivate us, give us strength, and show us the power of love. They are worth every worry, every tear, every laugh, and every moment of our time. The power of a child is the power of love.

average bird lays one egg about every 26 hours, that equals a lot of chickens at the Voortman ranch!

Did you know that you can tell how fresh an egg is by how high the yolk stands up in the frying pan after you crack it? Voort-man's will have your over-easies standing tall. Their fresh eggs are the highest in quality, with dark, nutrient-dense yolks. You will immediately notice a difference in your cooking and baking.

Have you ever wondered how long the eggs in the grocery stores have actually been sitting around? Despite the use-by date, there is really no way to know how long ago they were produced. With Voortman's, the eggs are selected daily, on site, and readied for you in their store.

Third-generation egg rancher, Eddie Voortman, says, "We are a local, family-owned business that provides fresh, quality products to the public."

Customers of Voortman's rave about their all natural, cage free eggs, touting the freshness, and great pricing. One customer said, "They make the fluffiest scrambled eggs!"

The eggs come in all sizes and colors, depending on your needs. Whatever you choose, you will not be disappointed.

Voortman's is centrally located just minutes from Chino at 13960 Grove Avenue in Ontario (just north of Edison). You can reach Voortman's at (909) 465-1319; and Like them on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Voortmans-Egg-Ranch>.

The Flood

Reverend Wayne Chu

If you keep up with international news, you may know that there was record-breaking rainfall causing terrible floods in China. Last week, even the Forbidden City (a historic palace) in Beijing was flooded, (It is the first time in 600 years that the Forbidden City has flooded). This week, the heavy rain moves to the northeastern area of China where the flooding followed. More than 2 million people needed to evacuate. Many towns are inundated and many people lost their families, their land, and many even lost their lives.

We feel the pain of the people. We pray that God has mercy on them, rescue will come and the situation will improve soon.

As we read Genesis, we read that God promised Noah never again He will destroy all living creatures through the flood. So we would ask the hard question: Why does God allow these disasters to happen to people today?

In the Gospel of Luke, there is an incident Jesus explained to us why some people experience suffering like this and I think it may give us an answer. Jesus asked a question, "Do you think these people were worse sinners than all the others because they suffered this way? And Jesus said, "No, but unless you repent, you too will all perish." Jesus gave another example: "Or those eighteen who died when the tower in Siloam fell on them—do you think they were more guilty than all the others living in Jerusalem? I tell you, no! But unless you repent, you too will all perish." (Luke 13:1-5)

Future judgment has never been a popular topic, but it is the core teaching in the New Testament and it is exactly because of the terror of the future judgment that our salvation becomes so precious.

All these natural disasters are acting as a sign for the world; if people do not repent when the judgment eventually comes the consequence of sins will bring these disasters. For Christians, it is our responsibility to tell the world that there is a way out, which is by believing in Jesus Christ, we can be saved.

A Good Priority

Pastor Dennis Morales

Leviticus 6:12 "And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it; it shall not be put out. And the priest shall burn wood on it every morning..."

A first-grader wondered why her father brought home a briefcase full of work every evening. Her mother explained, "Daddy has so much to do that he can't finish it all at the office." "Well, then," asked the child innocently, "why don't they put him in a slower group?" I believe there is much truth to this. We find our fast paced environment creeping its way into our lives more often these days. We can walk into worship at church lacking energy and being a spectator rather than a willing participant. This may not always mean it's time for a vacation, but it may be an indicator to at least "slow down." The fire on the altar of "burnt offering" was to never go out. If your time with God is dissipating, you will burn out. God is calling upon us to burn brightly for Him in our daily lives, but there needs to be fuel for the fire. The priests would throw wood on the fire every morning to keep the fire burning. It may be time to prioritize, slow down, and put wood on the fire. There is no greater fuel for the Christian heart than the Bible. In Luke 24 after Jesus rose from the dead, he met two disciples on a road and opened the Scriptures to them. After their encounter with the Risen Christ they proclaimed "did not our hearts burn within us while He talked with us?" (Luke 24:32) Make it a priority to get back into the "daily" practice of reading your Bible and praying. It will bring fuel to your life.

Back to School

Melody Kraemer

How could summer be over? It just started. The last week of school seems like last week: the year-end parties, the turning in books, the minimum days, and the excitement of summer ahead.

But here we are the beginning of a new school year. The long days of summer will be coming to an end. The beach days, park days, swimming, and hanging out with friends will soon be just a memory of this past summer.

As we head into the new school year, I urge everyone to pray daily. Pray for the safety of our children and schools, for the teachers who get overworked and overwhelmed but keep pushing through. Pray that each child will be kind to one another and understand that special needs children are around them. Pray that all will have patience and compassion for each other.

As we spent the summer with our kids having a blast and enjoying and soaking up that sun, it's time we send them off to their new classrooms, teachers, and even maybe a new school. Again pray that each child comes home with a positive attitude. Pray they have a good day each day and are excited to return and learn. For the homeschoolers, pray that each day brings them joy and the love of learning. No matter where our kids are on the level of education, in school or homeschool, we need to pray over them daily. They are our future. Have a great school year!

Verses to pray over your kids

as they head back to school

Ephesians 4:32 - Pray they will be kind to one another

Joshua 1:9 - Pray that the Lord will be with them wherever they go

Psalms 56:3 - Pray to always trust in God

Proverbs 17:17 - Pray they love their friends at all times

A Plane Full of Children

Mark Hopper

My wife and I celebrated our honeymoon by spending two weeks in Hawaii. We enjoyed a quiet restful time eating breakfast on the lanai at our condo and discovering new restaurants for lunch and dinner. We also did a lot of cooking at the condo and enjoyed eating some delicious steaks from the BBQ grill.

We used a rental car to visit a variety of places on Maui and to purchase some souvenirs and gifts. It was fun to discover some new places and beaches that neither of us had been to before. We continue to smile as we remember our time together in Hawaii.

However our airplane flight home brought us back to reality. We flew my favorite airline Southwest non-stop from Long Beach to Maui. Our return flight was also non-stop back to Long Beach. But unlike our outbound flight the trip home was very different.

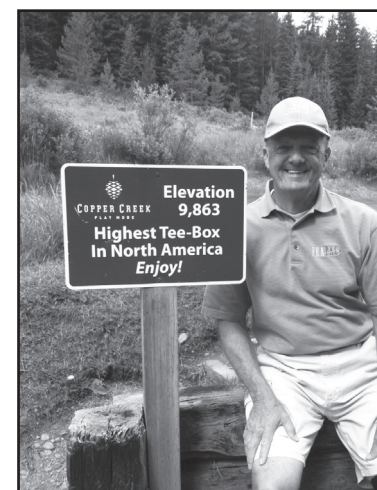

Both flights were full but the plane ride home was filled with over 40 children. There were a large number of families with little kids. It wasn't as bad as it could have been but it was a noisy active group on our flight. Some babies and little children struggled with the change in air pressure. It was difficult for some to sleep. The cabin was filled with the cries of infants who were tired and uncomfortable.

The parents tried so hard to comfort and quiet their little ones. Some walked them up and down the aisle of the plane and tried to settle their child down. Others used electronic toys and video screens to keep their kids quiet. Some were successful and some were not.

Eventually we arrived safely in Long Beach. It was a long flight. By now most of those little kids are home in their own beds and their parents are probably reconsidering their plans for their next trip to Hawaii. I suspect they may wait until their young children are teenagers.

There is a passage in the Bible which illustrates Jesus' love for little kids. He scolded his disciples for preventing young children from gathering around Him. He opened his arms and welcomed them to his side. (Mark 10:13-16). Let me encourage you to be patient and understanding when you are in a room full or a plane full of young children. And you may want to check with your airline to schedule your next flight with fewer kids on board. You will be glad you did.
