Armed Robbery In Eastvale

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale – Last month, an armed robbery occurred at a bank located in the 14000 block of Schleisman Road in Eastvale. Riverside Sheriff's Jurupa Valley Station investigators responded to the scene.

During the investigation, they discovered that a similar robbery occurred on January 4 in the City of Chino Hills. Jurupa Valley investigators contacted investigators from the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department (SBCSD) Chino Hills Station regarding the similar incidents, according to a Riverside County Sheriff's new release. "Based on the two investigations, SBCSD investigators identified the suspect as Aresh Narmaki, a 52-year-old resident of Chino Hills."

SBCSD investigators served a search warrant at Narmaki's home in the 6300 block of Blossom Lane of Chino Hills and Jurupa Valley investigators joined them. SBCSD Specialized Enforcement Division personnel arrested Narmaki at his home. "As a result of the search warrant, evidence related to both robberies was recovered," according to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

"Narmaki was subsequently booked into the West Valley Detention Center for armed robbery and has an additional charge of armed robbery being filed with the Riverside County District Attorney's Office," stated the Sheriff's news release. "The joint investigation between RSD and SBCSD yielded a positive result and prevented Narmaki from continuing his robbery spree."

Anyone with additional information regarding the investigation is urged to contact Investigator Medina at Riverside County Sheriff's dispatch at (951) 776-1099 or the Jurupa

Valley Sheriff's Station at (951) 955-2600 or Investigator Renear at San Bernardino Sheriff's Dispatch at (909) 364-2000

Tint Your Windows At Mr. Tint

STAFF REPORTS

Norco – Car window tinting is one of the best ways to improve the look and comfort of your vehicle. You can protect the interior of the vehicle from sun damage by tinting the windows. Sunlight and heat can cause your interior, like seats and the dashboard, to fade, crack and deteriorate. Window tinting reduces the sunlight allowed into the vehicle, which in turn reduces how hot it gets inside your car. Likewise, homes and offices heat up during

On Being Human

Michael Armijo

Ever since I was in 7th Grade I wanted to be a writer. I didn't want to just tell a story or discuss life as it happened, but I wanted to share how I felt about things. I wanted to create emotion and somehow help someone understand that it's okay to be human. I thought if I helped people understand certain things, then they wouldn't have to go through all that I've endured (and Lord knows I've endured).

My family and friends have told me they like what I've written. They've appreciated how I've shared my life, feelings, and thoughts with them. This has given me some fulfillment, but not exactly what I had been reaching for completely. I guess throughout my life I've wanted to help people because I felt just a little bit different than everyone else, and when I wrote it made me feel a little bit closer to being human. Then one day, it finally happened.

In the first issue of our paper, I wrote an article entitled, "Some Things Are Forever." It was a story about my father's death, what had happened, and how I felt about it. It was one of the most fulfilling stories I had ever written as I spoke directly from my heart. A few days later something happened. I received a letter from someone I'll call Agnes - because that's her name. Agnes wrote of her father's death, what happened, and how she felt about it. She wrote of how her father died on New Year's Eve, and while everyone was wishing each other a Happy New Year, she just sat by a window with a heavy heart. She spoke of that one corner of your heart that will grieve forever, and that there is no replacement. She found comfort in my article, as she felt very alone.

"My hands are shaking as I write this," Agnes wrote. "This touched me and helped me at a time I needed it the most." I understood what she was saying, what she was feeling, and for the first time in a long time I realized that I wasn't alone, either.

My 7th Grade dream became a reality when Agnes opened up. She shared something because I shared something. She reminded me that we all have a common thread; we need each other to survive. I felt reassured that my grief was shared by many and that I will survive after all. I also realized something that we sometimes forget: we need each other's acceptance, each other's care, a soft word, a short note, or a sign of acknowledgement from one another. We need to know that in this harsh, rebellious world, there are people like us who care, who survive, who have the ability to live, love, and laugh. We need to stick together, because life can be a battle.

And with the help of others, I have realized that dreams can come true.

The different emotions that I've experienced throughout my life have often been a mystery to me. I've told myself that I am just like everyone else; I'm not any different than anyone around me. But a little thought deep inside quite often tells me, you're not completely like everyone else. When I look around at all the violence, pain, suffering, abuse and so on, I wonder what actually makes people human. Then I think of people like Agnes - who share their experiences, who've reached out to say that they care, who believe in community - and I realize that it's all-inclusive. I realize it's okay to be human after all.

This article was written by Michael before he passed in October 2020. His articles are placed in his memory.

SBA LOAN NEW HOMES WORKING CAPITAL

Fuel For Life

Pastor Dennis Morales

Leviticus 6:12 "And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it; it shall not be put out. And the priest shall burn wood on it every morning..."

A first-grader wondered why her father brought home a briefcase full of work every evening. Her mother explained, "Daddy has so much to do that he can't finish it all at the office." "Well, then," asked the child innocently, "why don't they put him in a slower group?" I believe there is much truth to this. We find our fast paced environment creeping its way into our lives more often these days. We can walk into worship at church lacking energy and being a spectator rather than a willing participant. This may not always mean it's time for vacation, but it may be an indicator to at least "slow down." The fire on the altar of "burnt offering" was to never go out. If your time with God is dissipating, you will burn out. God is calling upon us to burn brightly for Him in our daily lives, but there needs to be fuel for the fire. The priests would throw wood on the fire every morning to keep the fire burning. It may be time to prioritize, slow down, and put wood on the fire. There is no greater fuel for the Christian heart than the Bible. In Luke 24 after Jesus rose from the dead, he met two disciples on a road and opened the Scriptures to them. After their encounter with the Risen Christ they proclaimed "did not our hearts burn within us while He talked with us?" (Luke 24:32) Make it a priority to get back into the "daily" practice of reading your Bible and praying. It will bring fuel to your life.

Calvary Chapel Eastvale meets Sundays at 9:00am. Services are held at the Eastvale Community Center. Visit their website at www.calvaryeastvale.org.

Inflation

Mark Hopper

The cost of everything has skyrocketed over the past few years. The cost of food, fuel and other necessities have risen dramatically. The government continues to reassure the public that inflation is slowing and things are under control. But most consumers are skeptical.

I have used the cost of donuts as an example. A dozen donuts at my favorite shop used to be nine or ten dollars. Recent purchases are now sixteen dollars for one dozen! One day I bought a half dozen and it was about the same price a dozen was only a couple of years ago.

Sometimes it is difficult to accurately measure inflation at the grocery store because manufacturers have reduced the quantity of the contents. A breakfast cereal box may look the same but it may contain less cereal. A bottle of orange juice may look the same but the contents have been reduced from 64 ounces to 59 ounces. Now it contains only 52 ounces. Looks can be deceiving. Read the fine print to clearly understand how much orange juice you are getting. Prices have gone up while the contents have gone down.

Years ago the State Department came up with a formula to measure the cost of living for diplomats serving in different countries around the world.

They adjusted the salaries of employees based on how much it cost to live in more expensive cities like Tokyo, Moscow or Paris. They compared the price of a MacDonald's Big Mac burger.

I got the idea to measure inflation by comparing the prices at my favorite fast food restaurant In N Out Burger. Several sources I found online confirmed the price of a Double-Double Cheeseburger in 2022 was $3.95. The price for the exact same burger in 2023 was $4.90. An increase of 24% in one year! The same size with the same ingredients. Some of the reasons cited by various authors were increased wages for workers, the higher cost of transportation and the price of the raw materials for the burgers and fries.

I think most people feel helpless fighting inflation. We need to feed our families and fuel our cars. Prices at the gas pump and the grocery store continue to increase. Jesus said our Heavenly Father knows our needs and will provide for us (Matthew 6:25-34). Let me encourage you to put your faith in God and not in the government. You will be glad you did and He will too.

Happy New Year

Melody Kraemer

Happy New Year. Another year has come and gone. Be happy, be blessed, and be thankful. I was sitting here thinking and mentally beating myself up for the goals I had set for myself that I didn't achieve for 2023. Also, for the projects that I said I was going to do and didn't get done, and for all the time I wasted worrying. But this verse came across my mind.

1 Peter 5:7 (NIV)

7 Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you.

I am removing all my anxiety from what wasn't done or completed to what was done and accomplished. It doesn't matter if it was on my list of resolutions. Life sometimes seems to take a turn, and what we plan to do is not always what direction God wants us to go in.

The backyard project may still need to be done. But Spending moments with my kids and seeing them laugh and enjoy life is so much more than a New Years' resolution that I broke. This year I vowed for 2024 to laugh and smile more, love deeper, pray a lot harder and walk a little slower and enjoy every step of the way without worrying about what got done or didn't get done.

Happy New Year to you, and may you take time to smell the flowers, watch a bird fly, count the stars, smile at a stranger, and hug your kids any chance you get, Be blessed, my friends. Have a wonderful New Year.

2024 The Magic Year

Nancy Stoops

Happy New Year to all of you wonderful beings. Yes it's a new beginning for us all. It's a chance to start fresh and finally become who you are meant to be. The New Year brings unlimited possibilities and new energy that helps us believe, the sky is the limit. The New Year gives us hope and many new chances. I say take these chances and make this year, the best one ever! Start this process by setting some small very obtainable daily goals. Once you're in the groove and have met the daily goals, now it's time to set a realistic goal for the year. You may or may not ever meet the year end goal but it's all about the steps or the process that we take in our attempt that cause us to change. That's what I want you all to focus this year. So what if you never get there all the way, you're certainly moving in the right direction. Be proud of what you were able to do in 2023 and don't beat yourself up for what you couldn't do.

I hope you will be good to yourselves this year and finally work toward who you are meant to be. I want you to remember it's all here for you and all you have to do is believe in yourself and go and get what you deserve. So I dedicate this to all of you in hopes that this will be a magical year. I wish for all of you that you will get out there and find all the greatness that exists in you and our very wonderful world. It all starts by believing in you and I believe in all of you and I want you to be the very best you can be. Make 2024 a magical year, the best year of your life!!!!

return when the weather is warmer to finish slurry-seal-only areas and to repair defective areas."

The City stated that they worked alongside a utility service provider to tackle repairs before the project was completed. "Our intention was to avoid cutting open freshly repaired streets for utility purposes, and this, paired with weather challenges, unfortunately delayed the project more than normal," stated the City.

When this information was released, the Eastvale residents expressed their opinions about the project on the City's Facebook page. Several said their street looked beautiful, while others said their street did not look complete at all, pointing out gravel and bumpy roads.

However, the City stated in their news release that the contractors are currently adjusting utility access covers, manhole covers, and giving the streets an additional sweep. "If areas have been missed, rest assured our inspectors will be monitoring the streets in the coming weeks to see if any additional work needs to be done," stated the City. "Once again, we appreciate your patience and will continue to monitor the project progress until our roadways are back in order," they added.
